Morgenthaler opens Boston office

Cleveland-based venture capital and management buyout firm Morgenthaler LLP today is opening an office in Boston to take advantage of life science opportunities in the area.

Three people will work from the office, according to Jeff Kenyon of Goldstein Group Communications Inc., a public relations company representing Morgenthaler.

Mr. Farrar, a member of the buyout team, joined the company in 2004 after serving as CEO of the European division of General Electric Fleet Services Inc.

The company's life science investment focus includes minimally invasive and implantable medical devices, according to a company statement.

The Boston office is the company's sixth.
