

“Hot Topics” Relating to Intellectual Property in Venture Capital Portfolios

November 12 | 12:00 – 1:00 pm ET

Protection of a company’s intellectual property is a top priority issue and can significantly impact a company’s long-term success and the investors’ ROI. There have been several rulings in the courts recently that have the potential to impact venture-backed companies in a variety of sectors. Venture capitalists need to be aware of the implications of these rulings and how they apply to their current portfolio and future investments. Join us on November 12th for a program that will discuss three “hot topics” that every venture capitalist and their general counsel should be aware of in regards to protection of intellectual property. They include:

- Business Method Patents
- eBay vs. MercExchange
- Open Source Software

Our Panelists:

Vern Norviel, Partner, Wilson Sonsini Goodrich and Rosati LLP (moderator)

Ted Driscoll, PhD., Technology Partner, Claremont Creek Ventures

Ray Felts, Chief Operating Officer, Article One Partners, LLC

Rebecca Lynn, Partner, Morgenthaler Ventures
